The Nova Scotia Baptist Education Society.

An Association of the Baptist Churches in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick was constituted in Granville, N. S., in June, 1800. In 1822 this Association was divided, and the Nova Scotia Association held its first meeting in the same year at Horton. The Association held its seventh session in 1828 at the same place. At this time several members of the Association, being desirous of doing something to advance education among the people, held a conference in a room in the building then called Fowler's Hotel, but which is now known as the American House, in Wolfville, and after serious deliberation decided to ask the Association to give its approbation to the formation of an Education Society. The following prospectus was afterwards presented, and received the unanimous assent of the body:

PROSPECTUS

OF THE NOVA SCOTIA BAPTIST EDUCATION SOCIETY, AND OF THE LITERARY AND THEOLOGICAL INSTITUTION TO BE CONNECTED THEREWITH.

It is universally admitted that Education has a powerful influence on the interests of Religion, and the well-being of individuals and society. In this Province a wide field is open for exertion with reference to this object; and the Baptists, as forming a very large portion of the population, are called on to engage in this good work with energy proportioned to the advantages in prospect; and earnestly to seek the Divine Blessing upon an undertaking bearing a close relation to the most important interests of men.

Two leading objects are to be regarded; the primary one, in a religious point of view, is the providing suitable instruction, within the reach of young men, who feel themselves called to the ministry of the Gospel : such young men raised up from time to time among us sigh for the means of mental improvement, and thus powerfully claim the attention of all friends of the Gospel in favor of this object, as one to which Providence seems to direct their labors.

The second object, of vast importance in itself, and, in the present state of the country, essential to the attainment of the first, is to establish a good Seminary for the general instruction of youth, so situated as to afford as much facility of communication with the various sections of the Province as possible ; and wherein the course of instruction, and the expenses of boarding and tuition, shall be adapted to the state of society and the condition of the people in general ; that thus the advantages of education may not, as has hitherto been too often the case, be confined to the wealthy, nor the time of the youth occupied with pursuits but little calculated to fit them for the stations of life which they have the prospect of filling.

For the purpose of compassing these objects it is proposed :

1. That a society be formed, to be called The Nova Scotia Baptist Education Society.

2. That all persons paying an annual subscription of twenty shillings and upwards, or making a donation of ten pounds or upwards, shall be members of the Society.

3. That the funds of the Society will be appropriated to two main objects : first, to establish a suitable seminary of learning ; and secondly, to afford pecuniary assistance to indigent young men called to preach the Gospel, for the purpose of enabling them to obtain instruction.

4. That a general meeting of the Society be held annually.

5. That there be appointed a President, two Vice-Presidents, two Secretaries and a Treasurer, a Board of Directors, and a Committee of Management.

6. That the Board of Directors be chosen at the annual meeting of the Society ; and the Officers and Committee of Management be chosen by the Board of Directors.

7. That of the Board of Directors ten, at least, shall be ordained Baptist Ministers, and two-thirds of the whole number, at least, regular members of Baptist Churches in connection with the Nova Scotia Baptist Association.

8. That the Committee of Management shall consist of, at least, seven, and not more than twelve, members, of whom more than half shall be regular members of Baptist churches in connection with the Nova Scotia Baptist Association.

9. That the Board of Directors shall hold, at least, one meeting every year, to consult on the affairs of the Society, ascertain and report its state and progress, review the proceedings and rules of the Committee, and make such general regulations as may be found proper for the advancement of the objects of the Society, and the government of the Committee.

10. That as soon as means are obtained the Society will establish and maintain a Seminary for education at Horton, under the direction and government of the Committee, subject to the supervision and control of the Board of Directors.

11. That a principal object to be observed in the management of the Institution being to adapt the course of study to the state of society and the wants of the people, and to place the means of instruction as much as possible within the reach of all persons, it is considered primarily necessary to attend to those branches of education which are of more general use, at the same time that a wider range of literary acquirements shall be open to those who may have the ability to seek them, or to whose prospects in life they may be more suitably adapted. It is also considered desirable that as far as may be practicable persons wishing to qualify themselves for the various callings of life should have opportunity to receive instruction at their leisure seasons in the year, in the particular branches of study more immediately requisite for their respective objects.

With these principles in view, it is proposed that this Institution shall afford the means of instruction in the usual branches of English Literature, and of scientific, classical and other studies, which usually comprise the course of education at an Academy and College. It will, however, be the business of the Committee to exercise their discretion from time to time in adopting or discontinuing such branches of the course of study as circumstances may require or render expedient, and progressively, as the funds of the Society shall permit, to adapt this Institution to answer all the ends above proposed. Provided, however,

12. That of the Committee and Board of Directors that part who shall be members of Baptist Churches in connection with the Nova Scotia Baptist Association shall have the sole regulation of the Theological Department in the Seminary.

13. It shall be the care of the Committee to provide efficient teachers for this Seminary, to whose moral and religious character special regard will be had; and it is considered an object in every department under the influence of the Society, never to be lost sight of, that the scholars and students, while acquiring information to fit them for their various stations in life, should be led to a knowledge of the true relation of man to his Creator, and of that faith in the Lord Jesus Christ which alone can furnish a sure pledge of their good conduct in this world and their happiness in eternity.

14. That the Seminary be open to children and persons of any religious denomination.

15. That to the attainment of the objects of the Institution it is essentially requisite that the whole system should be conducted upon a principle of the most strict and simple economy, and no distinctions among the scholars and students, arising from wealth or external circumstances, permitted to appear; the scholars will as soon as practicable be boarded at the Institution; and it is thought advisable to connect with the establishment a farm, under the care of some respectable person, for the supply of articles of provision for the use of the school, and for affording an opportunity of employing the boys during a portion of their leisure time in healthful labour, by which they may obtain exercise, acquire a habit of industry, and be less exposed to the irregularities which result from misemployed seasons of leisure. The diet and dress of the scholars to be of the plainest kind, and to be regulated by the Committee, and made known as part of the terms of the school, to be conformed to without exception.

16. The terms of Tuition and Board to be fixed at as low a rate as possible.

17. The funds for purchase of land, erection of buildings, and the various expenses incident to the commencement of the undertaking, as well as those which may attend its annual support, to be obtained by donations and annual contributions.

18. The Subscription Lists to be divided into several columns, by which the annual contributions may be kept separate from the donations; and persons making donations may distinguish the particular object to which they wish the donation to be exclusively applied; the annual contributions and donations not expressly limited to be appropriated by the Committee as it shall see most fit for the general advancement of the objects of the Society.

Officers of the Society for the present year, as chosen by the Association and by the Committee, under the sanction of the Association:

The Directors proceeded at once to carry the decision of the Education Society into effect. Wolfville was selected as the seat of the School. Sixty-five acres of land were purchased; and in March, 1829, the Academy was opened in a small building which stood near the north-east corner of the present College lot. Academy Hall was completed 1831 at a cost of $4000. The original portion of the Old Boarding House, costing about $5000 was erected in 1835.

The success of the Academy soon created a demand for enlarged courses of study. The Managing Committee of the Society, in their report in 1836, declared their conviction that the Society should broaden their plans so that the School under their charge could meet the wants of more advanced students and "deserve the immunities of a chartered institution." They recommended the appointment of additional teachers for higher classes. The general sentiment among the people of the Province in regard to education had prepared the way for this development.

A special meeting of the Society was held in Wolfville in November, 1838, to take into consideration the question of founding a college. The following extracts from the Records of the Directors will show what were the spirit and purposes of the men who met at that time to decide this great question.

At a General Meeting of the Nova Scotia Baptist Education Society at the Horton Academy, on Thursday, the 15th day of November, 1838:

The President of the Society, the Rev. Edward Manning, is called to the chair, and opens the meeting with prayer.

J. W. Nutting, Esq., the Acting Secretary of the Society, reads to the meeting letters from the Rev. John Dyer, the Secretary of the English Foreign Baptist Missionary Society, and from Mr. Butterworth, a student at the Baptist Theological Seminary at Bristol, England, relative to his being engaged as a Mathematical Teacher in the Academy; and also a letter from Mr. Isaac Chipman, now at Waterville.

The meeting proceed to deliberate on the subject of adopting measures to establish a College at Horton in connection with the Academy. After various observations from different gentlemen, the meeting is adjourned for twenty minutes.

The meeting having been resumed, is opened by prayer by the Rev. Joseph Dimock, and it is Resolved, on motion of the Hon. J. W. Johnston, H. M. Solicitor General, That if it shall be found practicable in a pecuniary point of view, it is highly desirable that this Society should now follow up the original design in its institution by furnishing the means of a more extended education; and that for this purpose it is proper and expedient to establish and support a College, in addition to the Academy, that by means of the two establishments a complete course of instruction may be afforded, and the young men educated at the Academy be under no inducement to seek in a foreign country the advantages of a Collegiate education.

Resolved, That in the opinion of this meeting a sum not exceeding seven hundred and fifty pounds per annum will be adequate to support the College with two Professors, and the Academy with two Teachers; that to meet this expense the sum of two hundred and fifty pounds would arise from rent of the dwelling house and tuition fees of the two Institutions; that this sum, together with the Provincial grant, the continuance or increase of which, it is reasonable to calculate upon, would leave the sum of two hundred pounds to be raised by private subscriptions per annum, together with the sum of one hundred pounds for philosophical apparatus; and that this meeting is of opinion that this expense would be cheerfully met by the denomination for objects so important, and therefore recommend the immediate adoption of the measure.

Resolved, That the Acting Committee be directed to take all necessary steps for the carrying into effect of these resolutions, and to make all suitable arrangements connected with the collection and receiving of subscriptions, and the organizing of the Institutions, and applying to the Legislature for an Act of Incorporation giving to the College, under the name of The Queen's College, the power of conferring degrees and all other necessary Collegiate privileges, and also to solicit an increase in the usual Provincial grant at the next session for aiding the present object.

Resolved, That a permanent agent be appointed to obtain collections and subscriptions for these objects, under the denomination of Financial Secretary of the Education Society.

Resolved, That the Rev. Mr. Bill be requested to accept this office; and that the Acting Committee confer by letter or otherwise with him and his church on the subject.

Resolved, That the Committee publish a statement addressed to the friends of the Society, setting forth the views under which this meeting has adopted the foregoing resolutions and soliciting their concurrence.

Resolved, That the Committee also communicate these resolutions to the Baptist Education Society of New Brunswick, and request their aid and concurrence, and, if practicable, their union with this Society in the establishment and support of the College.

Resolved, That in forming the Constitution of the College it shall be placed under the same government as the Academy, and no restriction of a denominational character shall be placed upon the appointment of the Professors or Officers, or the matriculation or graduation of students.

The meeting was then adjourned.

At a meeting of the Managing Committee of the Nova Scotia Baptist Education Society, at the Academy at Horton, on Thursday, the fifteenth day of November, 1838:

PRESENT:

The Rev. Wm. Chipman,
Simon Fitch, Esq.,
Rev. I. E. Bill,
The Hon. J. W. Johnston,

Rev. John Pryor,
Rev. E. A. Crawley,
Rev. Richard McLearn,
J. W. Nutting, Esq., Acting Sec'y.

Whereas, Resolutions have this day been unanimously adopted by the Nova Scotia Baptist Education Society at a general meeting of that body at the Horton Institution, that it is highly desirable to follow up the original design of the institution of the Society by furnishing the means of more extended education, and for that purpose that it is proper and expedient to establish and support a College in addition to the Academy, and that the Acting Committee be directed to take all necessary steps for carrying into effect such resolutions and to make suitable arrangements, it is thereupon

Resolved, That two Professorships be established, their separate departments to be fixed by the Sub-Committee to be hereinafter named.

That a Sub-Committee be appointed to prepare a Constitution and Statutes for the College, and also a draft of a Charter or Act of Incorporation for the same, and a petition to be submitted to the Legislature at their next meeting, and to do all such other business as by the resolutions of the Education Society this day passed have devolved upon the Committee ; for carrying those resolutions into effect

Resolved, That Mr. Johnston, Mr. Crawley, Mr. Pryor, and Mr. Nutting be such Sub-Committee.

Resolved, That the Petition to the Legislature be signed by all the Managing Committee, and that the Secretary be authorized to sign the names of such of the Committee as may be absent.

Resolved, That a salary of two hundred and fifty pounds per annum be attached to each of the Professorships.

Resolved, That the Academy continue to be conducted by a Principal and Assistant as heretofore, and that for the present the Principal of the Academy receive the salary of one hundred and fifty pounds per annum.

Resolved, That the Rev. Edmund A. Crawley. A.M., and the Rev. John Pryor, A.M., be requested to accept the Professorships in the College.

Resolved, That forty shillings per week and his travelling expenses be allowed the agent of the Society.

Resolved, That the Sub-Committee do take immediate measures to obtain a Principal for the Academy, and also that they do request the Rev. Mr. McLearn to undertake the charge of the Boarding House, or take such other measures as may be necessary to supply the office of Steward.

The meeting was then adjourned.

Announcements were made on the seventh of December that classes would be formed in Queen's College on the 20th of the following month. Rev. J. Pryor, M.A., and Rev. E.

A. Crawley, M.A., were appointed Professors. On the 21st of January, 1839, the College was formally opened, twenty matriculated students being in attendance.

In February of the same year a bill was presented in the House of Assembly to incorporate the College with the powers of a University. This bill was rejected on its second reading by a majority of one. At its regular meeting in June the Education Society adopted another memorial to the Legislature on the subject of a charter, and recommended that it be signed by the ministers and messengers of the Association. A petition to the Legislature was prepared by the Hon. J. W. Johnston, then Solicitor-General of the Province, which was signed by the ministers and delegates of the Association at its meeting in Wilmot. As this document contains many things of general and permanent interest, it is introduced here, that it may be preserved among the records of the College, with the names of the signers:

TO THE HONORABLE THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, &c., &c., &c.

The Petition of the undersigned ministers and messengers of Baptist Churches assembled at the annual Nova Scotia Baptist Association, held for the present year at Wilmot, in the County of Annapolis,

Respectfully sheweth,—

That in the early history of this country, when many of the first settlers of the wilderness were shut out from the benefits of society and the public privileges of religion, the Baptist ministers willingly encountered the toils and privations of a missionary life, carrying with persevering zeal to the scattered and secluded homes of the inhabitants throughout a large extent of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick the knowledge and consolations of the Gospel.

These labourers in the field of Christian benevolence were not the less fitted for this work of usefulness, but of hardship, among an unlettered people, because they were themselves ungifted with secular learning.

Extensive success crowned their labors, and they were honored as the instruments of diffusing moral and religious truth through the wilderness that overspread their country.

When in subsequent years the state of the country and the condition of the people had become greatly altered, it was felt to be necessary that the denomination should make some effort in the cause of Education corresponding with the advancing state of society.

They met the emergency. Difficulties indeed opposed of no trivial order. Among themselves there were many who believed the alliance of secular learning and religion to be undesirable, and abroad were not wanting those who looked on their efforts with scorn and jealousy and prejudice.

They however persevered; and having at the meeting of the Baptist Association in 1828 formed a society for advancing their object, they have never ceased to press it forward, although at times retarded by obstacles which seemed almost insuperable, until they have reached a period when their institutions at Horton, filled with intelligent students, under able instructors, require under providence only a moderate share of legislative aid to give them stability, and confirm their success.

To this support your petitioners most earnestly but respectfully make their present appeal to your Honorable House.

They rest their application on two principal grounds: First—The usefulness of the object. Secondly—The exertions they have themselves made toward its promotion.

First.—The diffusion of knowledge is recognized as a public benefit; enlightened governments consider the promotion of education as a paramount obligation resting on the state, and in this province the legislature has not been backward in devoting a share of the public revenue to that end.

Were the benefits of the institutions on whose behalf your Honorable House is now addressed confined to the members of that religious denomination to which your petitioners belong and those connected with them, including probably not less than 30,000 souls, these benefits would, as your petitioners respectfully think, be even then sufficiently extensive to warrant the claims they advance. The diffusion of Education cannot be unimportant among a body which forms a considerable portion of the population of the whole province; which is thickly settled throughout all the southern and western parts of this peninsula, and is scattered more or less over its entire extent; and whose ministers and pastors, being called to those offices from among the people indiscriminately, cannot be placed in advance of the common standard of literary attainments, as existing among the bulk of the population, unless facilities of education adapted to their views and circumstances are created and placed within their reach.

The means of effecting this object must be looked for in their own country.

Other religious denominations in the province are connected with powerful and wealthy societies and communities in the mother country, whence they derive supplies of instructed religious teachers, or pecuniary aid and general support.

With the Baptists it is otherwise. They can obtain for their ministers as well as for their youth in general the means of a liberal education only through their own exertions, and the assistance of their provincial government.

But, in fact, the benefits of the institution at Horton are designed and calculated not to be limited to any particular class, but to be open and applicable to the whole community. The object of the Society in these institutions is to afford the means of a practical and liberal education, under a discipline favorable to sound morality and religion, but free from denominational bias, in a manner suited to the feelings and means of the people in general. And your petitioners can confidently assert that as far as they have as yet proceeded this object has been strictly adhered to and successfully carried out in practice.

On the second ground of claim, your petitioners (notwithstanding the importance and usefulness of the object in view) should feel they had but small claim to public assistance had the Baptists of Nova Scotia failed in any exertions within their own power. But such is not the case. They have themselves first put their shoulder, earnestly, perseveringly and effectively, to the work, as your Honorable House is well aware; and when what they have done in the cause of education is compared with their circumstances and habits your petitioners feel entitled to claim on their behalf every aid your Honorable House can with propriety grant.

Some objections have been urged which it is respectful and proper to notice.

It has been said that the Baptist Education Society should have been satisfied with the Academy they had founded, without seeking the establishment of a College.

In reply, your petitioners beg to remind your Honorable House that the provision of some appropriate means for perfecting the education of the youth taught at the Academy was necessary to carry out the object for which the undertaking was at first engaged in, and towards which the Academy, although a requisite step, was obviously not the only means.

Before the College was attempted this necessity had been in fact strongly brought into notice.

Scholars had passed through the Academy and had been obliged to seek the completion of their education in the United States, or to abandon it, and many more were approaching the same difficulty; and if it be admitted that the promotion of education for the purposes which dictated the establishment of the Nova Scotia Baptist Education Society was a worthy or legitimate object, it cannot be reasonable to confine it within limits which of necessity must fall short of meeting the extent of the deficiencies sought to be supplied, or of the benefits to be obtained.

But it has been further objected that those ends might have been obtained by means of the existing institutions, without resorting to the foundation of another College; and King's and Dalhousie Colleges have been pointed to as establishments whither the scholars from Horton Academy might have repaired for the completion of their education.

Your petitioners are constrained, in replying to this objection, to controvert its correctness in point of fact.

The institutions at Horton are especially designed to present the means of education under circumstances calculated to meet the pecuniary ability and the feelings of the body of people residing in the country.

But the constitution and government of King's College, the circumstances and connections of many of those who ordinarily make up its students, and the tone and influences with which it is from these and other causes necessarily surrounded, and which serve to attract to it the youth of particular classes of the community, render it uncongenial to the feelings and unsuited to the habits and opinions of the majority of the inhabitants of the country; and although such were not the case, yet the expense incident to attendance on its courses would place it in general beyond their reach.

Dalhousie College is also, from its situation in the metropolis, not less unsuited to their use. The expenses which residence in town would necessarily entail are more than many who are now enjoying the benefits of Queen's College could meet; and your petitioners are assured there are many in similar circumstances to succeed them. The advantages which Queen's College possesses in this respect are not confined alone to the lower rate of boarding warranted by the greater cheapness of provisions in the country than in town, and the assistance its steward derives from the use of a farm. Queen's College being principally governed and supported by persons of the plain and inexpensive habits which prevail in the country, and placed in the midst of a similar population, its students may, where circumstances require it, conform to modes of economy in many respects which could not be adopted in town, without singularity and mortification.

This, however, is not the only or the greatest objection entertained by the members of the Baptist Education Society against viewing Dalhousie College as the resort of their youth.

The exposure to temptations to vice and dissipation, and to the risk of imbibing habits of expenditure or sentiment in other respects unsuited to their circumstances, connections and pursuits in life, form objections of a nature too grave to be overborne by any considerations. Your petitioners are aware it has been said the objections to Dalhousie College have resulted from confining its professorships to the members of one denomination.

It may be true that a few of the friends and managers of the Baptist Education Society, not entertaining any hope of the establishment of a Collegiate institution at Horton, and not aware of the extent to which the objections in relation to a College in Halifax were entertained in the country, looked to Dalhousie College as offering the only means of supplying in any degree the deficiencies labored under at Horton. But it is equally true, and your petitioners hesitate not to assert it in the most unqualified terms, that the sentiment was not entertained among the denomination in the country that Dalhousie College could meet their educational wants. On the contrary, your petitioners believe that whenever the subject has been considered an opinion entirely opposite was entertained.

It is, therefore, due no less to your Honorable House than to themselves that your petitioners should unreservedly declare that however enlarged the trusts of Dalhousie College may be made, and whatever the usefulness to which it may be destined, it answers not, and it cannot answer, the main objects for which the Baptists of Nova Scotia have laboured, that to withhold the assistance necessary to render the institutions at Horton effective on the ground that Dalhousie College affords what they need, would be but to deny their request, while affecting to grant it; and that in such a denial is involved the probable destruction of all their past labors and expenditures by limiting them within bounds inadequate to the attainment of their object.

It has been urged as a further objection against your petitioners' claims that the general interest will be better suited by the support of one College than of many.

In reply, your petitioners would respectfully remind your Honorable House that public institutions to be extensively useful must be framed in conformity with the condition of the country they are designed to benefit.

Some reasons have already been given why a College situated at Halifax must fail to extend its benefits to the larger portion of the inhabitants of the country.

There are also positive advantages in favor of the erection of educational institutions in the country among the people themselves and under the care of particular classes of the community.

It is thus that a sense of the value of education and of the duty of supporting its institutions can best, and probably can alone, be brought home to the people, and extensively circulated. If general opinion and the example of other countries are adduced on one side, your petitioners, turning to facts as they may have been found in Nova Scotia, may, with some measure of confidence, point to the influence and effects in these respects which have resulted from the labors of the Baptist Education Society, and the institutions at Horton.

Had no other good been effected by the Society than the feeling extensively created through its exertions in favor of education that were public benefit sufficient, as your petitioners respectfully urge, to entitle it to the support of the Legislature; a benefit whose magnitude can only be fully appreciated by calling to mind that Nova Scotia is occupied by the owners of the soil; that from its population in general, and without distinction, are called those who fulfil the various duties of society in all its relations, and that the highest rewards which can be gained by ability and exertion are alike open to all whom nature or education may qualify for usefulness among their fellow subjects.

That a Provincial College at Halifax, arousing the sympathies of no class in particular, could have effected the removal of prejudices against education or indifference to its advantages, or have enlisted the support of individuals, or have allured to its instruction the youth of the country in the manner which has been effected by the institutions at Horton, will hardly be asserted by any who are acquainted with the habits and feelings of the people. One College in Halifax sustained by the public revenue may indeed serve the purposes of the wealthy and of the inhabitants of the town; but the wants and interests of the population of the country in these particulars will be better suited, as your petitioners believe, by institutions among themselves adapted to their habits, and enlisting in their origin and support their own energies and feelings.

Your petitioners here meet the objection that the erection of several Colleges will lower the scale of literary attainment, and therefore one alone should absorb all the means available for that object.

If the objection were capable of no exception or qualification its just results would have been to repress all other institutions that King's College, the first in point of time, might alone flourish.

But, giving to it all possible weight, it must have already received a sufficient answer, provided your petitioners have succeeded in shewing that establishments such as that they are advocating are required for the effectual advance of education in the country, for it would seem unjust to put down the institutions necessary for the good of the country that one at Halifax may be raised to the highest possible eminence.

Your petitioners, however, cannot admit that a College supported by so large a body of people as is engaged in favor of Queen's College may not with a fair share of public aid sustain the professors adequate to give it a respectable character.

Two professors of high standing and reputation are now engaged at Queen's College, and it is hoped before long to add another.

Your petitioners believe the professors at King's College have never exceeded three, and during the greater part of its existence the number has been confined, as is the case at the present time, to two.

In conclusion, your petitioners would present themselves to your Honorable House with all the earnestness the importance of the subject and their deep interest in it is calculated to arouse,—they would encourage all the confidence which a deep sense of the justice of their requests and of the liberality of your Honorable House is entitled to create.

They would point to the past, exhibiting Nova Scotia in its infancy, and the members of their denomination, although poor and obscure, yet second to none in spreading through its wilderness settlements the light of religious truth. They would turn to recent times, and shew the same people, increased in numbers and influence, foremost in their personal exertions and sacrifices, for advancing the cause of education and diffusing instruction. And in virtue, and on the pledge of these services, they would, on behalf of the Education Society and its friends, ask for aid—aid not to increase their present comforts, or to enhance their properties—but aid towards conferring on their sons the benefits of intellectual cultivation, and giving to their country men qualified to sustain and advance its honour and welfare, and to fill with credit and advantage the important duties of society.

Your petitioners, therefore, most earnestly, but at the same time most respectfully, pray that your Honorable House would be pleased to pass an Act for incorporating the Queen's College with power to confer degrees, and to grant to the Baptist Education Society such pecuniary aid, with such permanency as shall appear to be reasonably required, for the encouragement of the object.

When the Legislature met in the winter of 1840, the members found that the friends of the College had been active and earnest in endeavoring to affect public opinion. Petitions in behalf of the College came in from all parts of the Province. The opinion of the House on the subject had been considerably modified. A new bill to grant a charter to the College was introduced, and, after an earnest debate, passed by a vote of twenty-seven to fifteen. On being referred to the Home Government for approval, Her Majesty's advisers desired that the College should take some other name. Consequently Acadia was substituted for Queen's. A copy of the despatch of Lord John Russell concerning the Act is here given :

PROVINCIAL SECRETARY'S OFFICE,

Halifax, 25th July, 1840.

Gentlemen :

I have it in command from His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor to transmit to you the enclosed extract of a despatch from Lord John Russell in reference to the Act for incorporating the Trustees of Queen's College, and to the petition of the Committee of the N. S. B. E. Society, praying Her Majesty to assent to that Act.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient

Humble servant,

RUPERT GEORGE.

The Honble. J. W. JOHNSTON,

J. W. NUTTING, Esq.,

Halifax.

Extract of a despatch from Lord John Russell to Sir Colin Campbell, dated 16th June, 1840.

"I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your despatch, No. 27, of the 14th April last, transmitting a joint address from both Houses to Her Majesty praying the Royal assent to the Act No. 2045, for granting a drawback on foreign wheat flour in certain cases, and also an address from the Executive Committee of the Nova Scotia Baptist Education Society, praying Her Majesty's assent to the Act No. 2042, for incorporating the Trustees of Queen's College at Horton.

I have laid these addresses before Her Majesty.

You have already been made acquainted by the Marquis of Normanby's despatch, No. 6, of the 22nd March, 1839, with the objections entertained to the title of 'Queen's' College by which the Baptist College at Horton is designated.

I entertain the same objections to that title which my predecessor did, but, as the details of the Act are unexceptionable, I am unwilling to advise its disallowance on that account.

You will therefore ascertain whether the Council and Assembly would be disposed to amend the Act in this respect, on the understanding that, in that event, the Act would receive Her Majesty's confirmation."

The following were the original GOVERNORS of the College :

- *HON. JAMES W. JOHNSTON.
- *JAMES W. NUTTING, ESQ.
